Saving just a little bit of water each time you turn on the tap can add up to substantial monetary savings over time. While waiting for the shower water to warm up, catch the cold water in a jug or bucket. You can use it later to water the plants, fill the kettle or mop the floor. This will save you up to four liters each time. Turning off the tap while soaping or shampooing will save you a further nine liters. (From "In Our Hands," Reader's Digest, Nov. 2006)
